The Power of SPC

What's New in Version 10.0?

Zontec is pleased to announce the upcoming release of Synergy 2000 Version 10.0, scheduled for availability in October of 2014. The list of new features and enhancements includes:

- Added security with system access controlled by individuals who have responsibility for data security, user privileges, data change logs, audit trails and password aging
- Validate samples using an electronic signature or user name
- Several updates to user information, log file entries and date display in accordance with FDA Part 11 validation requirements
- Screen display option that allows users to view the ten most recent samples of all Data Tables in the active Data Bank
- Multi-Axis Overlay chart to compare up to three characteristics on one control chart
- Automatic email alert for operator inactivity based upon a defined time interval
- Define custom labels in the Math Table Worksheet consistent with your production environment
- Modified Auto Note feature that provides more versatility as to what events will trigger an automatic prompt for a user to document assignable causes, corrective actions or other events that take place in the process
- ID values included in automatic email notifications sent for out-of-control and out-of-specification
- Enhanced graphics within the program including start-up screen when initially launching the application
- Prompt Spec Warning, including color coding of measurement value column, added to the Math Table
- Verification option that ensures all IDs have been defined before opening a Data Bank

- Box and whisker chart generated for each observation within a Data Table
- On screen numeric key pad option for data input

Synergy 2000 users currently covered under the Zontec Annual Service Agreement Plan will automatically receive the Version 10.0 update and documentation at no additional cost.

Your Service Agreement also includes unlimited Technical Support. Don't minimize the value of the Service Agreement to your organization. It ensures that you are taking advantage of the latest improvements to the software and are always budgeted for updates. The Zontec Service Agreement makes the most of your initial software investment.
